

GOVERNOR M'CKORKLE.

His Defense of West Virginia's Position on the Debt Question.

BRIEF STATEMENT OF THE MATTER

In Reply to Repeated Publications Regarding the Organization Formed to "Make a Settlement." A History of the Case—This State Not Indebted to Virginia.

The following letter explains itself: STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA, EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, CHARLESTON, Nov. 28, 1893.

For some time the newspapers of the country have been teeming with statements concerning the "West Virginia debt." A statement in reference thereto recently appeared in your columns. The statements are generally to the effect that a powerful financial organization has been organized to settle the "West Virginia debt." These statements work vast injury to our state. The inference is that we owe a debt which we will not, or cannot, pay. That such an organization has been effected is borne out by the statements above mentioned as well as by repeated demands for information made upon this office.

This organization is composed of the owners of a part of the old Virginia debt, and its efforts to saddle upon West Virginia the incumbrance of a state debt. Every interest of our statehood demands that we should repel even the suspicion of a state debt with its ruinous and blighting taxation and the inseparable burdensome accompaniments of a state debt. The state of West Virginia neither in law or equity owes any debt.

A brief statement of the question will enable this to be seen. In April, 1861, the state of Virginia seceded. In June, 1861, the convention for the re-organization of Virginia met in Wheeling, and in August adopted "An ordinance to provide for the formation of a new state out of a portion of the territory of this state." The ninth section of this ordinance provided that:

"The new state shall take upon itself a just proportion of the public debt of the commonwealth of Virginia prior to the first day of January, 1861, to be ascertained by charging to it all state expenditures within the limits thereof, and a just proportion of the ordinary expenses of the state government since any part of the debt was transacted; and deducting therefrom the monies paid into the treasury of the commonwealth from the counties included within in the said new state during the same period."

This ordinance was a fundamental and organic stipulation prescribed by Virginia for our separation from her, and upon compliance therewith the people within the counties not known as West Virginia were authorized to form a constitution. The people, acting under the provisions of the ordinance above mentioned, accordingly did form a constitution, and carrying out the conditions of the ordinance, provided in section eight of the constitution:

"An equitable proportion of the public debt of the commonwealth of Virginia prior to the first day of January, 1861, shall be assumed by this state; and the legislature shall ascertain the same as soon as may be practicable, and provide for the liquidation thereof by a sinking fund sufficient to pay the accruing interest and redeem the principal within thirty-four years."

I repeat that the clause first above referred to is an absolutely organic stipulation, the very basis of our authority for the state's formation and inheres into every germane enactment of the state whether constitutional or legislative. It was approved by the people of this state, the Congress of the United States, the President acting under the law of Congress relating to the state's admission into the Union, and was affirmed by the supreme court of the United States.

Such being the case, the inquiry under the ordinance and constitutional enactments thereunder is: What was the bonded debt of Virginia prior to January, 1861, how much was contributed by the counties now composing West Virginia, and how much was expended within the limits of the territory of West Virginia?

The funded debt of Virginia on January 1, 1861, was $31,758,807.32. The amount contributed by West Virginia after deducting a proportion of the expense of the state government was $3,592,000.00. The expenditures of West Virginia from 1862, which was date of first issue of bonds in Virginia) to January 1, 1861, was $3,560,229.22.

Leaving surplus of contribution over expenditures of $3,560,229.22. Thus it is seen that according to the ordinance prescribing the conditions of settlement between Virginia and West Virginia, that West Virginia is not indebted to Virginia, but on the contrary, West Virginia's contribution is more than one-half millions in excess of the expenditures within her limits. This statement of the case is absolutely defensible at law, and at the same time perfectly just.

Such being the case, without any regard to the fact of the ordinance settling the principles of payment, and without regard to the fact that about thirty millions of this debt has been expended in Virginia, making her one of the seats of a vast commerce whilst Western Virginia sat in the shade of her eternal forests and in the silence of her undeveloped mountains. Virginia in 1871 assigned to West Virginia one-third of her debt.

This action was in the teeth of the ordinance which provided that the proportion of the debt to be assumed by West Virginia under the certain conditions therein above set out should be that part prior to January the first, 1861. The legislature of Virginia after compounding the debt several times, proportioned it as of July, 1871, making the whole debt and interest $45,718,119.23 and set aside to West Virginia $15,238,370.74, which with interest would make the colossal sum of thirty-five millions as West Virginia's debt.

This was done without agreement or settlement with West Virginia, and, as you see, not alone was the ordinance absolutely governing the settlement ignored, but the ordinary and general rules of equity in such cases were disregarded.

A plain statement without argumentation will illustrate this proposition: In a settlement and division of any property by equity an assignment of liability or property based upon acreage and population will not obtain. This is what has been arbitrarily done by Virginia. This whole debt was created to build institutions, construct railroads, canals and turnpikes, deepen harbors and improve navigation. In other words, this expenditure was not for general good, but rather for local benefit.

The bulk of these improvements in West Virginia arising from the expenditure of public moneys consisted of one or two turnpike roads and an incomplete insane asylum, whilst Virginia was covered with splendid turnpikes, crossed with canals and railroads, with her harbors improved and navigable rivers deepened, and millions of the public moneys were lavished upon her public buildings and institutions. Then when the expenditure of these public moneys for these purposes had caused grand cities to rise, and every element of wealth and improvement to be found in one section and not in the other, would it be honest and equitable to assign a debt or create a liability upon a mere question of acreage and population?

Virginia spent all of the public moneys, excepting two or three millions, within her present limits for these improvements. She has them yet and has reaped the benefits from them for almost half a century, whilst this state had practically nothing. Every good West Virginia reverts and loves the good name of the old state, but Virginia has no interest whatever in the payment of these certificates.

It is true that these "West Virginia certificates" were issued by Virginia, but, as we understand it, she was released from any part of them, and the persons interested in them are, for the most part, the speculators who have purchased them.

These certificates have never been recognized by West Virginia. She utterly repudiates any liability thereunder and has nothing to do with them, and so far as she is concerned they are not worth the paper upon which they are written. West Virginia has no debt, nor is she liable for any part of the Virginia debt. I am well aware that the usual agencies will attempt to create a contrary impression, but the citizens of our state thoroughly understand the situation.

We are building the railroad, opening the mine and felling the forest, and with low taxation and an intelligent and vigorous population we are pushing rapidly forward to our goal as one of the first producing states in the Union. Not wishing the state to be injured by the statement going the rounds of the press, that we have upon us the terrible burden of a state debt, I have written a brief statement of the matter without attempting to argue the question.

West Virginia never issued a bond, asks no credit and owes neither in law or equity a dollar.

Very truly yours, WM. A. M'CKORKLE, Governor of West Virginia.

FIRE AT CLARKSBURG.

Several Business Places Destroyed—Loss About Ten Thousand Dollars.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligence.

CLARKSBURG, W. VA., Dec. 4.—The greatest fire that has devastated Clarksburg since the famous Smith, Brown & Co. block was burned several years ago, occurred at half-past one o'clock this morning in one of the principal business quarters of the city. The fire is supposed to have originated in Sewart's restaurant on Main street and quickly spread to three adjoining buildings.

A light snowfall covered the roofs of the adjoining buildings probably prevented a much greater fire. The losses are: W. Nussbaum's book and grocery store, loss $5,000, insured for $2,000; George L. Boring's grocery, loss $1,500, $1,000 insurance; Sewart's restaurant, loss about $500, same amount insurance; Gandy's meat market, loss from $1,200 to $1,500, insured for $500. The insurance on the buildings amounted to about $2,000. It is reported that the buildings will be rebuilt as soon as possible in a much more substantial and attractive style.

A CRISIS APPROACHING

In the Belmont Miners' Strike—Threatening Notice Posted.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligence.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., Dec. 4.—The miners at Belmont have been on strike for several days, but cold weather and hard times have made some of them want to go to work again at the old wages. Whitecaps have posted notices everywhere threatening awful punishment to any man who will go to work at the old wages. Things are approaching a crisis.

Mysterious Disappearance.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligence.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Dec. 4.—Henry G. Moore, a drummer for Shattuck & Jackson, wholesale grocers, has been missing for ten days. He leaves behind a young and pretty wife and child. His disappearance has caused no small sensation.

Court House Dedicated.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligence.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., Dec. 4.—The new $120,000 court house was dedicated to-day in the presence of a large crowd. Governor MacCorkle and others delivered addresses.

MRS. FOY NOT INSANE.

The Report Started by the Defense in the Coughlin Case Denied.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—One of the assistant attorneys for the prosecution in the Coughlin case emphatically denied to-day the statement that Mrs. Foy is insane. Mrs. Foy is the woman who has told a sensational story of the Cronin murder alleged to have been gleaned from her husband, who she claims, was one of the conspirators. "The insanity report is ridiculous," said the attorney. "No insane woman ever told a story like that. But the defense will undoubtedly bring witnesses to testify that the woman talked with them and told other stories, and it will come down to a question of veracity for the jury to decide."

PERE HYACINTHE

Calls for a Union of Catholics and Protestants for the New Church.

PARIS, Dec. 4.—Pere Hyacinthe, in his advent sermon in the Protestant chapel in the Rue Taibout yesterday, explained the objects of the new religious society composed of Catholics and Protestants, called the National Society of Evangelization, founded by himself and Pastor Mattetal, ex-president of the consistory of the Lutheran church.

Pere Hyacinthe said that socialism arose from the formalism and exclusiveness in the routine of the various Christian churches. He appealed for a union of Catholics and Protestants as realizing the idea of the new church and embracing all those known Christians.

A Mysterious Trip.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Dec. 4.—The United States revenue cutter Thomas Corwin is under special orders for a 2,500-mile trip. Her destination is Honolulu without doubt, and she may be expected to leave this afternoon or to-morrow morning. Whether any person in diplomatic authority is coming here from Washington to go to the islands on the Corwin is not known. It is quite likely, however, that a special messenger entrusted with secrets of state will be the emissary, who will occupy one of the staterooms already set apart in the after cabin.

The New Italian Cabinet.

ROME, Dec. 4.—The following is the composition of the Italian cabinet as composed: Premier and minister of the interior, Signor Zanardelli; minister of foreign affairs, General Baratterio; minister of justice, Senator Inghilterri; minister of posts and telegraphs, Signor Scipione; minister of public works, Signor Fortis; minister of war, Gen. San Marzano; minister of marine, Admiral Raccia; minister of agriculture, Signor Coccorini; minister of the treasury, Dr. Vacchelli; minister of education, Signor Gallo; minister of finance, Signor Boselli (not yet confirmed).

Robbers Caught.

BELLEPLAIN, IOWA, Dec. 4.—The perpetrators of the daring robbery at Luzerne Saturday night were overhauled by officers from Belleplain, late last night. They were hiding in a church at Kosta, a farm neighborhood, eight miles south of here. They gave up only when threatened with death if they did not submit, and are locked up here for a hearing. They gave the names of John Connell, John Kinney and James Martin. Two hundred dollars of the stolen money was recovered.

The New French Policy.

PARIS, Dec. 4.—The declaration of the policy of the new ministry was read in the chamber of deputies and in the senate to-day. The declaration says that France never more strongly demands the maintenance of order and the defence of principles which the French revolution gave as the basis of modern society; namely, individual liberty and the rights of property. The declaration of policy says the government will oppose socialist doctrines.

Murderer Davidson Dies.

PITTSBURGH, PA., Dec. 4.—Curtis Davidson, who assaulted and murdered Miss Birdie Baugh at Alliance, Ohio, on November 14, after which he cut his own throat, died at Canton, Ohio, at 2:30 o'clock this morning.

PEOPLE ECONOMIZING.

It is Proper and Right—A Valuable Suggestion on the Subject for All Householders.

"There is hardly a man or woman in America who does not feel that the depreciation and declining valuation of all kinds of property has necessitated and will continue to cause economy for years to come."

This remark was made by a leading American banker in conversation with the writer.

"This economy must extend not only to luxuries but to many other things. It includes the necessities of life and the requirements of health. When men or women are weak and depressed, or have the first symptoms of a cold, or a sickness, let it be pneumonia or any other disease, they can and should save a probable large future expense by contracting instantly, the first symptoms of such troubles. If people feel a chill, they should, at once take some stimulant to overcome it. In this way they will not only save expense, but possibly a long illness which might ensue did they not take instant measures to prevent. Nothing can so quickly and certainly accomplish this as the great medicinal remedy known as Bull's Pure Malt. Its action is quick and complete; it counteracts the first approach of any description of cold and keeps disease at bay. The other claims recommended by physicians are continually. It is put up in large bottles, and in addition to its superior quality furnishes a greater quantity than any other medicinal stimulant in the market. It is true certain diseases often break to self ordinary wisdoms furnish as good, just as good, but those who are well versed are never deceived and insist upon having the only pure medicinal preparation of the kind known to the world.

BELLAIRE.

All Sorts of Local News and Gossip from the Glass City.

The saloons in this city are thinning out and this month will see from fifteen to twenty per cent of them closed. John E. Vogel, Balzer Wenzel and Fabry are closing out to quit, along with half a dozen others. A few years ago there were sixty-two saloons here. The low law tax and other things reduced the number to about forty-five, and now it is down to thirty-six and will probably go to thirty by the 20th of this month, when another half of the Dow tax is due. But most of those that continue will continue if the tax is put at $500 instead of $250, as is now thought probable.

A dispatch from Muncie, Ind., says that a Miss Martha Goddard, formerly of Bellaire, is in trouble in that city and charges the fact that she is about to become a mother to the chief of police, who admits having her board. It also says that Miss Goddard went there in search of Zebiah Barnes, formerly a glassworker here.

Dangerous Preparations.

ALCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER is composed of purely vegetable ingredients and is absolutely harmless. It assists nature in her own efforts to heal and invigorates, and imparts strength to the whole system.

Many preparations contain strong chemical and mineral substances which produce an injurious effect, not only upon the skin, but the whole system, although at first they seem very beneficial, on account of their powerful action and temporary effect upon the surface.

When purchasing a plaster do not only ask for ALCOCK'S, but make sure that you get it.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS are purely vegetable.

Out in a Blizzard.

Mr. J. P. Blaize, an extensive real estate dealer in Des Moines, Iowa, narrowly escaped one of the severest attacks of pneumonia while in the north-east part of that state during a recent blizzard, says the Saturday Review. Mr. Blaize had occasion to drive several miles during the storm and was so thoroughly chilled that he was unable to get warm, and inside of an hour after his return he was threatened with a severe case of pneumonia or lung fever.

Mr. Blaize sent to the nearest drug store and got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, of which he had often heard, and took a number of large doses. He says the effect was wonderful and in a short time he was breathing quite easily. He kept on taking the medicine and the next day was able to come to Des Moines. Mr. Blaize regards his cure as simply wonderful.

The Secrets of Pearline's success? Well, there are several. Here are some of them, just to prove that its enormous growth was only natural. First: The article was precisely what its makers claimed it to be; it has never changed—no improvement has been found. Used for years—always alike.

Second: The public was kept informed about Pearline. This was necessary. With anything so new and so different from old ideas, people had to be educated. Third: The best advertising Pearline has ever had (and it costs nothing) is from every woman who has used it. She tells everyone how much it has done for her in all kinds of washing and cleaning; that while the cost is nominal, she has found it to be better than anything else, always the same, and perfectly harmless; and that the saving by using cheaper imitations for a year wouldn't be enough to pay for one ruined garment.

Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—and it's back.
